which was read twice and referred to the Committee on

A BILL

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE AND TABLE OF CONTENTS.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS; SENSE OF CONGRESS; PURPOSES.

2 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

3 (1) Sean Goldman, a United States citizen and 4 resident of New Jersey, was abducted from the 5 United States in 2004 and separated from his fa-
 6 ther, David Goldman, who spent nearly 6 years bat-
 7 tling for the return of his son from Brazil before
 8 Sean was finally returned to Mr. Goldman’s custody
 9 on December 24, 2009.

10 (2) The Department of State’s Office of Chil-
 11 dren’s Issues, which serves as the Central Authority 12 of the United States for the purposes of the 1980
 13 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of Inter-14 national Child Abduction (referred to in this Act as

1 the “Hague Abduction Convention”), has received 2 thousands of requests since 2007 for assistance in 3 the return to the United States of children who have 4 been wrongfully abducted by a parent or other legal 5 guardian to another country.

6 (3) For a variety of reasons reflecting the sig-
7 nificant obstacles to the recovery of abducted chil-8 dren, as well as the legal and factual complexity in-9 volving such cases, not all cases are reported to the 10 Central Authority of the United States.

11 (4) More than 1,000 outgoing international 12 child abductions are reported every year to the Cen-
13 tral Authority of the United States, which depends 14 solely on proactive reporting of abduction cases.

15 (5) Only about one-half of the children ab-
16 ducted from the United States to countries with 17 which the United States enjoys reciprocal obligations
18 under the Hague Abduction Convention are returned 19 to the United States.

20 (6) The United States and other Convention
21 countries have expressed their desire, through the 22 Hague Abduction Convention, “to protect children 23 internationally from the harmful effects of their 24 wrongful removal or retention and to establish pro-
25 cedures to ensure their prompt return to the State

1 of their habitual residence, as well as to secure pro-
2 tection for rights of access.”

3 (7) Compliance by the United States and other 4 Convention countries depends on the actions of their 5 designated central authorities, the performance of 6 their judicial systems as reflected in the legal pro-
7 cess and decisions rendered to enforce or effectuate
8 the Hague Abduction Convention, and the ability
9 and willingness of their law enforcement authorities
10 to ensure the swift enforcement of orders rendered
11 pursuant to the Hague Abduction Convention.

12 (8) According to data from the Department of 13 State, approximately 40 percent of abduction cases 14 involve children taken from the United States to 15 countries with which the United States does not 16 have reciprocal obligations under the Hague Abduc-17 tion Convention or other arrangements relating to 18 the resolution of abduction cases.

19 (9) According to the Department of State’s 20 April 2010 Report on Compliance with the Hague
21 Convention on the Civil Aspects of International 22 Child Abduction, “parental child abduction jeopard-
23 izes the child and has substantial long-term con-
24 sequences for both the child and the left-behind par-
25 ent.”

1 (10) Few left-behind parents have the extraor-
2 dinary financial resources necessary—

3 (A) to pursue individual civil or criminal 4 remedies in both the United States and a for-5 eign country, even if such remedies are avail-6 able; or

7 (B) to engage in repeated foreign travel to 8 attempt to obtain the return of their children
9 through diplomatic or other channels.

10 (11) Military parents often face additional com-11 plications in resolving abduction cases because of the 12 challenges presented by their military obligations.

13 (12) In addition to using the Hague Abduction
14 Convention to achieve the return of abducted chil-
15 dren, the United States has an array of Federal,
16 State, and local law enforcement, criminal justice,
17 and judicial tools at its disposal to prevent inter-
18 national abductions.

19 (13) Federal agencies tasked with preventing 20 international abductions have indicated that the 21 most effective way to stop international child abduc-22 tions is while they are in progress, rather than after 23 the child has been removed to a foreign destination.

24 (14) Parental awareness of abductions in 25 progress, rapid response by relevant law enforce-

1 ment, and effective coordination among Federal,
2 State, local, and international stakeholders are crit-
3 ical in preventing such abductions.

4 (15) A more robust application of domestic 5 tools, in cooperation with international law enforce-6 ment entities and appropriate application of the 7 Hague Abduction Convention could—

8 (A) discourage some parents from attempt-
9 ing abductions;

10 (B) block attempted abductions at ports of 11 exit; and

12 (C) help achieve the return of more ab-
13 ducted children.

14 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
15 gress that the United States should set a strong example 16 for other Convention countries in the timely location and 17 prompt resolution of cases involving children abducted
18 abroad and brought to the United States.

19 (c) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

20 (1) to protect children whose habitual residence
21 is the United States from wrongful abduction;

22 (2) to assist left-behind parents in quickly re-
23 solving cases and maintaining safe and predictable 24 contact with their child while an abduction case is 25 pending;

1 (3) to protect the custodial rights of parents,
2 including military parents, by providing the parents,
3 the judicial system, and law enforcement authorities 4 with the information they need to prevent unlawful 5 abduction before it occurs;

6 (4) to enhance the prompt resolution of abduc-
7 tion and access cases;

8 (5) to detail an appropriate set of actions to be 9 undertaken by the Secretary of State to address per-10 sistent problems in the resolution of abduction cases;

11 (6) to establish a program to prevent wrongful 12 abductions; and

13 (7) to increase interagency coordination in pre-14 venting international child abduction by convening a 15 working group composed of presidentially appointed
16 and Senate confirmed officials from the Department
17 of State, the Department of Homeland Security, and 18 the Department of Justice.
